Time, it is one of the world's biggest mysteries. To think about time, we must imagine a world without it. Without time, school would not begin at 7:35 A.M. and luckily end around 2:12 P.M. Football, basketball and other sports games would not have quarters or half times. Breaks at work would never happen and you'd never get payed time-and-a half. So you see, Time is essential to our life. Think of a semi-formal or prom that lasts forever, or never being early for a date or party. Even worse, what if you didn't know when to set your alarm for school, or had no time to socialize with friends while passing to classes. The ability to measure times makes our ways of life possible. As you read through your yearbook, I hope you see how much "time" and effort has been put into its production, and remember your years at Stoughton High School as the "Best Times of Your Life"!-Rachel Slate

The years, my friend, are as fast as the wind. They've passed us by in so little time that I don't know where our friendship began and where our lives crossed this road. We hurried along the path thus far, and always we've kept so close together. You followed me in times of need, and I have followed you. My friend, we are one, we are parts of a whole, we know where we must turn, but now, my friends we will not travel together. For once we will not follow the same road that we started those four years ago. I will take mine, and you will do the same, but we know not where they lead. Be strong my friend, we knew that the time would come, when I looked east and you looked west, and our sights reached far beyond the stretch of road that we know well. It will be hard, but, my friend, we must go on for a new life awaits us ahead. But do not cry, those tears will only dampen our new paths. Keep smiling, as I will remember you that way, and you will remember me with smiles and laughter and joy that is yours and mine alone. Life's road is not straight, and you know we will meet again, for the next time we will gather, we will be strong and wise and happy yet, I know you well.-Anonymous

the summer's crazy days

Summer, everyone's favorite season. No school, no homework and no worries...life just can't get any better! As the bell rings at 2:12 P,M, on that last day of school our freedom begins. The next two months are filled with endless possibilities and dreams. But, how it flies by. Whether you spend your summer on vacation, visiting colleges or just hanging out with friends, it was bound to be a time with the wonderful memories of new experiences and making new friends. We were all determined to have the most fun possible: parties, pools, beaches and late nights with friends, who could have asked for anything more?

Pretty soon July turns into August and everyone knows that once it's August the summer seems to be over in minutes. It starts to get dark sooner and it isn't long before double sessions are beginning and you find yourself wandering around the mall looking for the perfect outfit for the dreaded...first day of school.

Where did the summer go so fast? Although none of us want to be back it was good to see all of the friends that you hadn't seen since last June or even last night. You will always have those times to remember of a great summer, priceless memories that you will treasure forever. Enjoy the year!- Emily Banis

the school bell rings

First day of school "WOW" where has the time gone. It feels like yesterday we were freshmen entering an unknown building for the first time. Not seeing any familiar faces and getting told that there's a pool in the "A" building, some fools we were. As the school year past we began adjusting to the high school atmosphere. Sophomore year arrived just as fast as you could snap your fingers. Who said we wouldn't make it through your freshman year-we proved them wrong. As tenth graders we've not only adapted to your surroundings but we've been moving up as upper classmen and are able to harass the youngins.

With all the fun that you have your first two years the last two are not only the most important but the most exciting for some people and others it's not. Junior year is probably the most challenging year. You get caught up in all the exams that are taking place. The anticipation of leaving Stoughton High is what keeps everyone going.

As Senior year approaches the preparation for college is underway. Writing the essays and filling out the applications is just one of the many importances at Stoughton High for there is the invention of "Powder Puff" where shall they not be without that? Senior year wouldn't be complete without the tears of joy, yes it's graduation right around the corner. Time flies when you're having fun!

AMES

Untitled
Nicole Yong

Lying in the cool crisp sheets was a crumpled and old, wrinkled man.
His thick, black-rimmed glasses were missing, his eyes were half closed, and oh so vacant.
He was gaunt and he stared at me if death himself had dealt his last punch at this man's life.
I tried to recall my grandfather as the man who sat in front of the TV, waiting for the Megabucks numbers.
Yet, I couldn't find that man I once knew as I looked into those vacant eyes.
I hugged him, and he whispered that he was glad I had come.
At those words, the dam I had built up against the tears burst, so I squeezed him even harder.
Then the call came-he had passed away-DEAD AND GONE.
Granny Rosie said that he had died walking in his dreams, to pass into his own world of fantasies.
That day uncannily suited the event-the coffin was carried in the sloshing mud and pouring rain.
I thought that God was crying that day, and Granny Rosie and I broke down to join him.
She turned and gave his cold cheek one last kiss and lay his fingers accross the last pack of cigarettes;
Before the earth forever claimed his body...
Then nights later, I dreamt.
I dreamt of him in flowing white robes, on a glowing white cloud.
He stretched out his hand to me.
His smile and the twinkle in his eye beckoned to me.
I reached out my hand to him and I felt warm smooth flesh as my fingertips danced across his palm.
"Remember me," he said, "Remember me."
And then I awoke, in a hot flood of tears...all I can do is remember.

Mystic Eyes Glowing
From I Know Not Where
Kim Fahey

Mystic eyes, glowing, from I know not where.
Eyes everywhere, I can't escape there stare.
They know what I've done, they've seen my sin.
I feel their burning eyes penetrate my skin.
I struggle to survive; they will never win.
Knowing I'll be free keeps my hope alive.
They swarm around me like bees to a hive.
I lose faith, give up or give in.
Only through life's lessons can the world change
The eyes that glared and made you feel strange
That made you feel weak and caused you to fall;
Were only in your head, and never there at all.
Your toughest critic is staring you in the face.
Believe in yourself, and you'll win life's race.

The Blues
Courtney Boen, AnneMarie Rossi and Alana Telian

As I strolled down the path
Gazing at the dark blue shadows of the far away hills
I could taste the salty teardrops
Flowing down my cold, numb cheeks into my mouth.
As I exhaled, I could see my breath in small blue puffs.
I though about how alone I had been since he left.
I came to the lake where I last saw him.
It was crystal clear in my mind.
We were skating, hand in hand, on the cold blue ice.
Suddenly! Crack! We felt the ice break beneath our skates.
I saw his cold, blue eyes, the color of the ocean, staring up at me for help.
But there was nothing I could do.
Now, everyday, I live with the agonizing pain in my heart.

Unknown Soldier
Ellie Roan

I didn't cry when you bravely marched away, never looking back.
I didn't hear the screams blending with an eer darknesss of a strange land, invoking pangs of homesickness
you though you'd never feel.
I didn't see the secret tear that fell on a friend dying in your arms
without a proper good-bye, or experience the terror that pursued you as you ran from unsympathetic bullets.
I didn't watch you collapse
into crimson,
Leaving this crazy , conflicted world
before having a chance to live, or notice your absence
in the returning troops celebrating while you lay alone
on foreign soil, lost and forgotten.
I didn't hear them say that no ceremony, speech, or monument could ever make up for your life that is gone.
Instead, they call you the Unknown Soldier,
a hero who died with honor in "the fight for freedom,"
a casualty on behalf of America, forgotten.

the scary ghosts haunt

Halloween...October 31, 1998, the "Class of 1999" sponsored the annual Halloween Party which was held in the high school cafeteria. The party was held for children between preschool and sixth grade. It was a huge success! The efforts of the Class Officers and Mr. Young and all who helped should be congratulated on a job well done.

As soon as school ended for the day a large group from the senior class set up for the festivities. You could see students preparing the decorations, setting up and organizing the refreshments, plus setting up the various games and activities the children could participate in during the party. There was so much which needed to be accomplished before the Halloween party started at 4 PM.

Some of the activities included during the festivities were bobbing for apples, face painting, pin the nose on the pumpkin, painting pumpkins and a visit from Violet the clown. All of the children were dressed in many diverse halloween costumes ranging from S.H.S. football players, witches, clowns and many popular cartoon characters. The party gave the children of Stoughton a way to celebrate the holiday safely as it gave parents a chance to relax and also have fun.-Emily Banis

(Top) Junior, Matthew Cleary dressed as a football player quickly saw the great difficulty there is in bobbing for apples. (Middle) Violet the clown proved to be a big hit at this year's party. As you can see she is surrounded by adoring children. (Bottom) Christine Burns and Suzanne Rosenberg ran the face painting for all of the many children that attended the halloween party.

(Bottom Middle; Left-Right) Rachel Selby and Matthew Olem waiting for half time to begin. Jenna Obelsky and Paul America look forward to the half time ceremonies. (Bottom) The court welcomes their newly elected queen, Danielle McNamara.

This year's homecoming court had a wide variety of talented women. All candidates were people that had been assets to our class throughout high school. They had been active in class activities, sports and community events. Vanessa Campbell, Danielle McNamara, Jenna Obelsky, Rachel Selby and Nicole Yong were all wonderful candidates for this year's queen. Both nervous and excited they all stood on the football field, October 23, 1998, awaiting their turn to be called. As they walked down the fifty yard line toward the bleachers filled with friends, family and spectators the reality began. The only thing running through their minds was "please don't fall". Waiting .....who would it be? No one knew, finally the announcement was made, and the winner is Danielle McNamara. Standing there with her bouquet of flowers, a childhood dream come true. Voted for and chosen by you. A wonderful choice that resembles our class, the class of 1999.

the black orange week

During the week of November 23, the Student Council conducted the annual Spirit Week. Students participated in College Sweatshirt Day, the Canned Food Drive, Orange and Black Day, the Clothing Drive, and Penny Wars. Each morning, a member of the Student Council went into each homeroom to tally the number of participants in each grade. As always, the week's highlight was the Spirit Walls competition. In past years, each grade was assigned a hall throughout the school to decorate. However, this year, each grade had to select a wall in the gymnasium to decorate with a theme. The walls were judged on creativity, usage of Black and Orange, artistic display, and several other categories. The winners of each event were announced at the pep rally, held at the end of the Spirit Week period.-Rachel Slate

the spirited pep rally

To conclude spirit week, students and faculty were allowed to continue their displays of school spirit at the Pep Rally. Everyone got a chance to throw lots of toilet paper, chant out their grade ("Seniors, Seniors..."), and were given great performances by the band, color guard, and cheerleaders. To add to the excitement, the powder puff cheerleaders showed us their "orange, black, and a little white" spirit, and the three captains of the varsity football team shared with us spirited, emotional, powerful, and proud speeches. Also Nicole Yong, President of the Student Council, announced the winners of each competition during Spirit Week. The seniors were the winners of the Canned Food Drive, the Clothing Drive, and Orange and Black Day, the juniors were the first place winners of Penny Wars, College Shirt Day, and Spirit Walls. The Seniors, however, were the overall winners of the week!-Rachel Slate

the powder puff rivals

Once again, the seniors drove away with the victories of Spirit Week, penny day, orange and black day and college sweatshirt day were highlights of the week! The seniors' attitude in beating the Canton Bulldogs in both the Powder Puff and Thanksgiving game was felt as it's one of the most high-spirited events during senior year for both girls and boys. Hard work in practice lead by teachers, Miss Sullivan and Mr. Kelleher, along with enthusiasm caused by the togetherness of the team, were carried onto the field when game day finally arrived. The boys, on the other hand, had an opportunity to be the outstanding cheerleaders they were for the nonstoppable S.H.S. senior girls. These guys not only cheered their hearts out for the girls, but were right there with them when everyone cheered the team to victory.

On November 26th, the Black Knights slaughtered the Canton Bulldogs, at home. The toughness and strong efforts of the S.H.S. Gridmen carried them through. In the second quarter, Stoughton gained the lead, 6-0, after Timothy Kourafas caught a 20-yard pass from Quarterback Neal Houghton and turned it into a 60-yard touchdown. Kourafas also had an amazing play on defense, stopping Canton's Tom Thornton during a 55-yard touchdown attempt run. Minutes later, Pat Martin kept up the team momentum while intercepting a Canton ball earning six points for the 47-yard return. Representing their school proudly, Stoughton ended the half 12-0. Later in the fourth quarter, Michael Horan and Patrick Martin added two more touchdowns. Horan did so with a 31-yard pass, and Martin on a 15-yard run. Stoughton could already taste victory. However, with five minutes remaining on the clock, Canton's MichaelThornton scored for a 6-yard Quarterback keeper and added a two-point conversion. Despite this final play, Stoughton still remained undoubtedly victorious, defeating Canton for the fourth year in a row, with a final score of 24-8. Overall, Stoughton committed only one penalty, and never turned over the ball. "I'd like to give special thanks to the Seniors for this year" said Head Coach Greg Burke, "Never once did they falter in spirit or determination. They played hard. Everyone of them played hard every week". Congratulations to the 1998 Varsity football team for a well-deserving end to the season. -Rachel Slate

the best stage yet

SHS Dinner Theatre continues to be a popular annual event. This year's production, Sandbag Stage Left, or One Dead Dolly, was no exception. Arnold Meddle (George Scala, III) is on trial for the murder of his wife. Prosecutor Static (Michael Hojlo) and Defense Attorney Cling (Kimberly Fahey) create chaos in the courtroom of Judge Royal Bean (Janna Atcheson as they question a group of inept witnesses in an attempt to win their cases. Salvatore Soo (Daniel Gurney), Gretel Van Cristern (Bridget Kelley), Ginger Rayle (Rachel Pina), Mrs. Shelley (Marita Klements), Edwena "Chuck" Bury (Caroline Smith), Penelope Pacemaker (Kendra Bucklin), Harriet Beecher Meddle (Tara Peters), Dora Glockamorra (Megan Sullivan) Byron Shelley (Michael Matascio) and Gus Swenson (Christopher Howsen) all add to the confusion surrounding the death of Amelia Meddle. Each witness has his or her own interpretation of the evening in question. Other cast members included: the Bailiff (Christopher Benoit), Stenographer (Caitlin Atcheson), TV Reporter, Ella Kewtion (Christine Burns), Trudy Deffel (Sarah Symynkywicz), Gert Duffel (Jessica Kennedy). The jurors: Katie-Lee Crowley, Kellie McGrath, Lisa Garcia, Christopher Panico, Alicia Ross, Laura Piechowski and Emily Sievert had the task of deciding the guilt or innocence of Arnold. The cast did not know which ending they would play until the verdict was handed in.

the smooth melodic rhythms

The Marching Black Knights Band and Color Guard, led by Lisa Strano, will be performing an exciting show entitled "Case". The music is from a jazz/rock band from the seventies fronted by trumpeter Bill Chase, who is a hero to Mr. Christianson, the band's director.

The band and Color Guard will travel to towns in Massachusetts to compete in festivals sponsored by two marching band associations. They will also attend a festival in Cranston, RI for a third association. If you would like to see them perform check out any of the home football games.

The group met for their first joint rehearsal on August 25. The Color Guard began practicing at the beginning of the summer. The practice schedule is more rigorous than last year, since the band is planning to enter serious competition this season.

The Color Guard is an entirely separate thing. There are about fifteen girls in the guard, and they are the ones, who provide exciting visual effects for the show. They perform combinations of work with flags, sabers (plastic swords) and dance, sometimes very complicated movements, that go along with the music. The flags are changed several times throughout the show to add to the effect. They all look different but they enhance the visual effect.

The show should be interesting this year. It promises to be an exciting season, full of excellent visual and audio effects and fun music.-Erin Klim

the best holiday gathering

All four classes of Stoughton High School got together to have a most successful winter dance. The cafeteria was magically transformed into a winter wonderland by members of the class of 1999 and Student Council. The junior class participated by serving refreshments, the freshmen by advertising and the seniors by selling tickets. The effort put forth by all four classes and Student Council was wonderful. Some members of Student Council volunteered to dress up as holiday characters like Santa Clause, Hanukkah Harry and elves for the evening. Those who attended left the dance with a feeling of euphoria and the moment in time they shall never forget.

the positive peer mediators

People tend not to fully understand what mediation is, so let me give you this opportunity to find out. It is a voluntary and confidential way for students to work out any conflicts they may be having. The mediators are trained by Ms. Berman in the conflict resolution class and then undergo a training to improve their skills. Becoming a good mediator is not an easy task. As mediators, these students must remain neutral, not take sides and not judge the parties. They are there to listen and help to come up with a solution.

In doing this the mediators must also use positive language. This is not as simple as one may assume. Mediators build bridges and help parties to compromise. They also set up a safe environment for the parties to talk. Parties leave with a better understanding of the other person's feelings and motivations.

This year the S.H.S. Peer Mediators received a grant that allowed them to have two afterschool trainings for both the newly trained and experienced mediators. They proved to be extremely helpful in building the mediators' skills as well as their confidence.-Emily Banis

the practical physics projects

The physics classes utilize the skills learned in class for three memorable class projects.

The "Bridge Day" project is designed to have students solve an engineering style problem, using their own observation and understanding of the world.

Their task is to construct out of two hundred toothpicks and glue a structure which will hold up a minimum of 3kg (6.6 lbs.) placed on its center. A bridge which holds 10kg (22 lbs) is awarded a grade of "A". Not only do students have to design and execute a three dimensional structure, but also carry this out with toothpicks which are weaker at one end.

"Egg Day" is another way student skill is tested. Egg projects presented new and original ideas of how to create a vessel to cushion their eggs to prevent breakage.

The purpose of this project was to see how high the egg could drop from the roof without breaking. Students receive a grade of "A" by tossing their package up first.

Another memorable project was the construction of paper airplanes. There were two categories: one based on distance and the other on hang time. In order to obtain a grade of "A", the distance needed to exceed 20 meters and the time needed was at least 4 seconds.

These three projects proved valuable and used information learned from earlier lessons. It was several of the opportunities seniors have to compete in a friendly way, yet still fulfull an educational purpose.

the student working class

With all the stress of applications, school, sports, and extracurricular activities we should have little time for anything else. But most of us try to juggle a job on top of all of this. Why do we do this? To prepare us for the future, where tight schedules are a part of life. However we get through it, we do, whether it is sleeping through class or studying until 4:00 a.m. we manage it somehow.

On top of heavy course loads students are working anywhere from five to fifteen hours a week. You can find these hard workers almost any day of the week at almost any location from Shaw's, Town Spa, and Blockbuster Video to McDonalds, CVS, and Dunkin Donuts. Where do we find time for all of this, it is just a part of life. If we want to finance our busy social lives we must have money.

As we look back at our lives here at Stoughton High we will see how much we have accomplished and be proud of our hard work. We made it, our futures will be bigger and brighter because of our hard work and determination! -Emily Banis

Making Headway

The 1998-1999 Boys Varsity Soccer team had a tough but great year. With strong effort both offensively and defensively the Black Knights pulled through with a few victories. With the new arrival of freshmen the team's goal for tournament looks promising for next year. Best of luck to all the players and to the graduating seniors.-Erin Bernstein

A Building Year

The varsity girls soccer team under went a traumatic season. Going one and eighteen winning one non-league game. After the season's performance winning eight games and just missing tournament everyone assumed that Stoughton High girls soccer team would have a phenomenalyear. Due to injuries and illness the team had to practice and play with a short hand.

Even though they weren't a winning team each player as an individualperformed an act of leadership, sportsmanship and that's what kept the Stoughton team going strong.

The team of 1999, will be losing five seniors, four of which have been four year varsity starters and players. They are co-captains Jillian Rotondo, Kerry Wardrop. Erin Bernstein, Courtney Connors and Renee Barker.

Best of luck to the up coming graduates. Hope they'll have the drive to keep the team's spirits still going.-Erin Bernstein

CHICKS WITH STICKS

With a final record of 4-10-4, the team was disappointed that our goal for the state tournament was not fulfilled. Our team struggled through the season, but the statistics do not show the amount of talent or heart that we portrayed every time we walked onto the field. We may forget the details of the games but we will never forget the friendships we made.

To the seniors: it's been a great four years together. We came together freshman year and proved to Coach Mason that no matter how many buckets of balls he knocked over, we were winners. We will never forget the seasons we had together.-Jessica Rodrigues

The Stoughton Black Knight Gridmen brought home a great 1998 season with tremendous determination. Through the help and hard work of the coaching staff along with tri-captains Neal Houghton, Patrick Martin, and Jonathan Sullivan, and their fellow senior teamates Joseph Williams, Joseph Legaski, Charles Cooper, Christopher Greene, Brian Sullivan, Timothy Kourafas, Justin Speigel, and Joshua Peters, the Knights rocked the battlefield. Whether it was a 85-yard march down field followed by a 7-yard touchdown by Matthew Hurtig, against North Attleboro, Neal Houghton's seven passes and twelve attempts for 136 yards and Patrick Martin's 64 yard touchdown pass versus Randolph, or one of many other season highlights, the Knights showed that discipline and commitment are essential. After an amazing win over Sharon High, Head Coach Greg Burke stated, "Overall we're playing really well. The kids are giving their all every week, that's for sure". Congratulations to the 1998 Varsity football team on an entertaining and successful season.-Rachel Slate

Ready, Set, Go...

A determined group of runners led by captains Jared Savas and Jean-Pierre Placide is hoping that this will be the year they receive a win. If everything goes according to plan, that desire to win should be satisfied this season. There are nine solid teammates who should be up to the task. They are seniors, Michael Fine, Paul America, and Jared Savas, junior Adam Kotlik, sophomore Matthew Graupen, Michael Smith and Gerald Thaxton, and freshmen, Thomas Baryski and Robert Black. It is a small team in numbers but they have competitive experience. Not only are they experienced but they are also devoted to the team.

Splish Splash!!

This years swimming and diving team flourished under the leadership of Kimberly Huppe, Eleanor Roan and Patricia Woodford. Although we weren't the best team in the league, we were one of the most spirited. Our coaches Chris Brady and Elizabeth Renfrew encouraged us throughout the season. Many personal bests were attained this season. Kimberly Huppe, Eleanor Roan, Molly Grubert, Jessica Seaver and many others all worked hard to do their best. Heather Mills got her personal best in the 100 yard breaststroke while also qualifying for the Sectional meet. Along with Heath the 200 yard relay team also con peted at Sectionals. But without doubt the highlight of the seasc was our win over Quincy. This wa a memory that won't soon be fo gotten. The Seniors left with a ban by swimmming the 200 yar "freestyle" very creatively. Kin berly Huppe swam the craw Eleanor Roan swam the eleme tary breaststroke, Emily Ban swam the corkscrew and Patric Woodford finished it by swimmir the doggie paddle. All the fun an the memories will stay with us fo ever and although our record lool deceiving we did come in secon in the Hockomock League.-Emi Banis

Making Waves!!

The boys swim team had a good season in '99. Although, wins were not written down in the books, our confidence was never shattered. The team was lead by coach, Sandy Johnson. She took on the daunting task of changing this version of the "Bad News Bears" into a team. She never focused on winning, but, stressed the importance of good sportsmanship, comraderie and hard work. We are grateful for her dedication to us and thank her for a great season. Senior captain, Christopher Peterson and junior captain Matthew Barry also helped in guiding the team. Both were always very enthusiastic and never backed down from any competitor, no matter how big.

At first, there was a large turnout and we had hopes to be a real competitor this season. The loss of our teammates slowly through the season made that hope slip away. We had begun the season with eighteen and only eleven stayed until the end. To take a spot on the team you must have determination and commitment. The workouts are vigorous and the opponents are strong. Our main focus this year was self improvement. Every meet there were swimmers that improved, in my eyes that shows a determined team.

The team will miss departing senior and captain, Christopher Peterson. Hopes are high that a new breed of freshmen will come up and take his spot, while, the rest of the team continues to improve.-

Nothin' But Net

The girls varsity basketball team is a strong and determined team. Starting off the season with victories over Sharon, Mansfield, Canton, Foxboro and two wins over Hanover. This group of athletes are a very talented bunch, filled with spirt and motivation.

Even if the team loses a game, they don't let it stand in their way, the Lady Knights fight back with greater force. The team is lead by their tri captains, seniors Erin Bernstein, Tiffany Elms and junior Magdalena Nowakowska. These girls are very unique, knowing they are proud of who they are and what they represent. Good luck to the up and coming class.-Erin Bernstein

The Stoughton High School boys basketball team finished up with a 13-9 record. Although the record doesn't show it the Knights had their hands full with very close games with the top of the competitive Hockomock League.

The boys played in two non-league tournaments over the year. The first was the North Quincy Scholastic Holiday Tourney where the Black Knights took home the championship with Neal Houghton being named tourney MVP. The Quincy Tournament resulted in a different way losing to Milton in the championship. Senior captain, Paul Zapustas lead his squad and was named to the all-tournament team. Also, in this tournament Paul scored the one thousandth point of his career.

State tournament time came around and Stoughton landed the #15 seed. Stoughton played Silver Lake in arguably the most exciting game ever in Stoughton behind the heroics of Keith Motley and won 97-86 in overtime. Stoughton lost to the undefeated Hockomock Champs in North Attleboro to close out the year.-Paul Zapustas.

Pinning Wins

Competing in one of the most talented wrestling leagues in the state, the Stoughton Knight grapplers have had no easy tasks this season. With only sixteen boys and injury problems, the team constantly struggled for wins. Because of the low numbers and injuries, the team was often forced to give up at least twenty four points to their opponents due to inevitable forfeits. However a season highlight took place versus Randolph. The Knights won 42-24, winning 5 out of 7 weight classes wrestled. Though the overall numbers do not display the true talent of the Knights, each team member entered matches with strength, dignity and pride.-Rachel Slate

The Icemen Cometh!!

With the help of veteran Senior players, a great coaching staff, and good offensive and defensive line-ups, Stoughton finished behind Canton and King Philip in the Hockomock League this season. The S.H.S. icemen ended the regular season with a record of 14-5-1. This outstanding record earned them a game against Somerville in the Division Two South Hockey Tournament. Despite great skating and strong efforts, the Knights were unable to advance further in the tournament. Almost There...

Despite the girls track team record this season, the girls placed seventh overall in the Hocomick League. Coach Burke felt the team did an outstanding job averaging thirty points each meet which is FANTASTIC! This year the girls team had tremendous spirit, determination and desire. One of the most important things this season was the support and determination of the Captains Alyssa Dancey, Jenna Obelsky and Julieann Flynn. The team lost some tough meets this season but the attitude and spirit of the team and the captains never changed. Lorane Rogers and Amanda Shepherd were voted All Stars. Also the team had many state qualifiers; Denise Carlucci, Julieann Flynn, Erika Barber, Alyssa Dancey, Congratulations! This years seniors contributed greatly to the team and will be missed. The 1999 season kept improving, so good luck next year to the potential underclassmen in the year 2000!-Jennifer Finer

A Young Talented Team

Would you like to have access to a golf course every day of the week? The freshness of the outdoors gives the boost of energy to rip a 250 yard drive. At Stoughton High we golf daily at the Easton Country Club.

Mr. Paul Jacobs, an up-beat, encouraging coach, stresses the fact that practice, practice, and determination are the keys to success. With the availability of summer tournaments, it makes it that much easier to get practice.

Matthew Bown, one of the few experienced golfers, added, "It's gonna be tough, but if I can understand how to play competitive golf then anyone can learn and understand.

To Matthew and some of other team members it seems to be quite easy to grasp the idea of playing in competitive golf. This season will be a developmental season where our team will try and improve their game.-Matthew Olem

Shooting for the Stars!!

Despite our discouraging record, the gymnastics team never lost hope. Our season was filled with many obstacles along the way. We had many athletes get injured but we never lost sight of our roles on the team. We had many freshmen come out for the team, despite constant complaints, they worked hard, got routines and won a chance to compete. As an underclassman on a varsity team, they should be proud of that. Although, our record cannot show our hard work, all of us have improved. Captains, Kimberly Huppe and Emily Banis tried hard to improve the team. Thanks to those efforts the team that we had in February was ten times better than the one that we began with in November. A lot of thanks must also go to our coach, Lisa Walsh and our assistant coach, Rachel Kaplan. Without their motivation we never could have done it. To all the underclassmen, good luck next year!-Emily Banis

The Spirit of S.H.S.

The 1998-1999 cheerleading season turned out to be a successful and very memorable season.

During the summer clinics, bottle drives and a jump-a-thon were held to raise money for uniforms and cover expenses of a summer cheering camp. The camp either at Stoughton High School or organized by the UCA, consisted of intense dances, cheers, stunts and team spirit.

The cheerleaders found themselves busy during the fall season juggling practice schedules, cheering at soccer and football games and planning for the Thanksgiving Pep Rally.

The girls found themselves cheering both basketball and ice hockey games, in addition to regular practices during the winter season. Their efforts and spirits were greatly appreciated at Stoughton High School.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

Dear Members of the Class of 1999:

As Superintendent of Schools, I want to congratulate the members of the Class of 1999 upon the successful completion of their PreK-12 school career.

The Class of 1999 has made an everlasting impact in all areas of the school program: academic, athletics, co-curricula activities and community service. You have distinguished yourselves as leaders by example. Your successes have been our successes and have set the tone for future classes to emulate.

A special thanks should be given to your parents and teachers. Their support and understanding are major contributions to your success.

On behalf of your Stoughton school family, I would like to wish the members of the Class of 1999 much happiness and many successes in all of your future endeavors.

Sincerely,

Anthony L. Sarno, Jr.
Superintendent of Schools

To the Class of 1999,

Congratulations on the completion of your education in the Stoughton Public Schools. In addition to acquiring a formal classroom education, you have grown into young adults ready to take on greater responsibilities. As you may already have discovered, the more important the responsibilities become, the more difficult are the choices you face. No longer are the decisions as clear cut and final; complicated consequences are associated with almost everything important that you do.

As you are now prepared to take your next step into the world of college, the military or the workforce, make your decisions wisely and be true to your values and standards of right and wrong.

Best wishes,

English Department

I recently spoke to the head of the English Department, Ms. Hamilton. I asked what had inspired her to become an English teacher? Her response was, "I loved books from an early age. In high school I had several enthusiastic English teachers who shared their love of studying literature and writing. Reading and writing are opportunities for me to discover who I am and learn about the lives of others.! Her enthusiasm for learning is obvious in her classroom. She encourages her students to read by making the books interesting. The characters are brought to life by her dynamic teaching style. Students understand the books and therefore are able to write about them with full understanding.

> The class of 1999 should, "follow their dreams...challenge themselves to strive for the best."- Ms. Hamilton

This year a new program has been introduced to the school. Writing Across the Curriculum sends the message to students that writing is a way to learn about any subject. Writing has always played an important role within the English Department, but now its importance has spread throughout the school. It is not just a task to be done for an English class. Writing Across the Curriculum introduces some new language to writing tasks that teachers have been doing all their professional lives. With the new program, administrators hope to strengthen the writing skills of the students and help them improve their scores on the MCAS tests.

Each year the English Department holds the International Writing Contest. Any interested junior may participate in the contest. Students must submit a sample of their best writing and then write for one hour on an impromptu question. Both samples are scored by the English Teachers in the same way they are scored in the national competition, that is each entry has two independent scores...these papers are then read again by two independent scorers to select the honorable mention, semi-finalists and finalists. The finalists are then selected to represent Stoughton on the national competition. Also, there is the Rodman Ford Scholarship. They offer an essay for the seniors that attend school in the southeastern section of Massachusetts. The top four papers are awarded scholarships that range from $300 to $2,000.

Teachers within the department continue to work and improve scores on the MCAS tests, writing across the curriculum and the many other rigorous studies within the department.-Emily Banis

Math Department

It All Adds Up

The Mathematics Department is growing increasingly larger every year with so many new opportunities for students. Students at Stoughton High School are required to take three years of math in order to graduate. This can easily be accomplished as a variety of math courses are offered. With levels including alegbra one, part A through calculus, students easily earn their required credits. There are many projects assigned to each level of math that make it fun yet educational. Students and teachers agree that math is made easier when it is related to real life situations. This will allow students to see how all of the processes they are doing in class apply to true life like situations.

> "Working with a professional staff who are dedicated at what they do makes my job an enjoyable one."
> Edward Weiner

As a department head and teacher, Mr. Weiner, feels there is not enough hours in the day. Being in charge he finds it challenging and exciting. "Having an influence on the direction the math curriculum will take at Stoughton High School and for the Stoughton Public Schools, has made my job so enjoyable", states Mr. Weiner. The teachers and the students have grown to appreciate him as a teacher, department head and a person.-Erin Bernstein

World Language

Listen to Reason

Expand your horizons, increase your understanding of other cultures, improve the linguistic skills of your native tongue, view the world as a whole, increase your employment options: study a world language! The World Language Department at Stoughton High School offers a small variety of languages from Spanish to French to Latin. These courses are offered up through the fifth or fourth year, depending on the interest of the students. The ultimate goal of this department is to make the students as proficient as possible in their second language. Basically speaking, that is to make them understand, speak, read, and write the language and also develop an awareness of the cultures where the language is spoken. To achieve this goal, the teachers have to go outside of the classroom so that the student can enhance their understanding of the language. For example, this year the French classses traveled to the Boston Museum of fine Arts to observe the works of French artists and dine at a french restaurant to experience French cuisine first hand. Last year the Spanish classes traveled to the Park Plaza Hotel in Boston to see a Flamenco show. Another way the students can enhance their ability to speak and understand a world language is to go to the countries where the language is spoken and interact with the people. The students at Stoughton High are given this wonderful opportunity. Every Spring, during April vacation, Mr. Vieira and a group of of anxious students travel to Europe. This past year was the first year that they offered a trip that went to both Spain and France, where in previous years it was either/or. This year, however, there is another new trip that the students were offered. They had the opportunity to travel to Italy where they visited the the cities of Rome, Assisi, Padua, and Florence. This new and exciting opportunity has attracted the most students ever. During these trips, the students have the chance to talk to the people, see churches, cathedrals, museums, paintings architecture, and, in essence, experience the culture. It is very rewarding to a student who works so hard in the classroom to be able to communicate with people of a different country and understand their culture.

> "By the time you are John Glenn's age you might have seen the whole world. In the World Language Department you have never traveled so much. At your young age you have been going to England, Spain, France, Italy, Switzerland and Mexico. In your reading, writings and videos you have experienced the cultures of many different countries. Yes. You are becoming world travelers."
> Mr. Nuno Vieira

However, learning a world language can be a very difficult task to accomplish. Mrs. Benjamin, the director of the World Language Department, said "the hardest aspect for the students to learn is the verb tenses and grammar. Nevertheless, time, patience, and hard work will help you through to a very rewarding conclusion when you are able to speak the language with ease." -Jillian Rotondo

Art Department

Pictures Express Emotions

Trusting yourself, having confidence in yourself, training your eyes to study what exactly is in front of you, and understanding that your growth is a steady and slow process are the hardest aspects for the students to learn in regards to their artistic ability. The Art Department at Stoughton High School offers these students a general course of study which enables each student to personalize their own objectives according to the abilities. Basically speaking that means that they can choose and work at the level at which they feel most comfortable and confident. The goals of this department, as stated by Mr. Wall and Mrs. McNally, are to familiarize and enlighten the students, the faculty and the public of the vast possibilites of art; to teach knowledge, skills, and appreciation of art history and a vocabulary to discuss the aesthetics about which they learn; to provide the necessary skills for art production and the instruction that allows them to express themselves visually. However, their main goal is to make the art course an enriching and fun experience for all those who participate. Achieving this goal is a multidimensional task; not only is it necessary for the students to have hands-on experience in the classroom with the actual art tools, but also the teachers have to travel outside of the classroom to broaden their appreciation in other ways. Therefore, once a year they take their classes to the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston where the students are offered the opportunity to see the works done by the masters; this year there was a special treat due to the fact that there was an exhibit of the works done by Mary Cassat, an American born French impressionist who is known all over the world for her paintings. This also gives the students the opportunity to study and learn from the masters, helping them attain a higher level of art appreciation. To assist them in this goal of appreciation the teachers suggest that the students research an artist, his or her works and life, and also produce a piece of art as a reflection of this newly aquired knowledge. Mrs. McNally wishes that they could travel once a month to see these exhibits, galleries, and museums, but unfortunately, for the time being, they will have to try to get outside of the art room emotionally and mentally only.

> "It is art that makes life, makes interest, makes importance, for our consideration and application of these things, and I know of no substitute whatever for the force and beauty of the process."
> letter to H.G. Wells

As for Special events this year for the art department, there are architectural drawings of familiar landmarks around Stoughton on display at the Stoughton Historical Society done by the art classes of Mr. Wall and Mrs. McNally in conjunction with the American Studies classes. Also during February, the Stoughton Library hosted an exhibit of student art works, highlighting their efforts. Additionally, the department is planning to exhibit student work during the Spring, perhaps during "Fine Arts Night."

A Flashback of Time

"Develop good judgement, a lifelong habit that will make us active citizens," states Dr. Davis, director of the Social Studies Department. You can develop this from the teachings of the Social Studies Department. If history is taught well, it helps us to think clearly and to grasp the short lived and long term significance of events in our lives.

> "I am utterly convinced that science and peace will triumph over ignorance and war, that nations will eventually unite not to destroy but to build and improve the world and what the future will belong to those who have done the most for the sake of suffering humanity".
> Louis Pasteur

This year has been exciting for the Social Studies Department. Students have been all over Massachusetts on field trips to places like, the Museum of Fine Arts, Plymouth Plantation, Tsongas Industrial Center and various plays. They have also celebrated the healthy return of Mr. Tucker. When Dr. Davis was asked the goals of the Social Studies Department he responded, "To understand the significance of the past." Dr. Davis teaches the United States in the Modern World. His goals for this class are many. He states,"To avoid the notion the lessons from the past can always be used to solve problems in the present, but to appreciate the accidental forces of history". Dr. Davis finds it very important for students to rely less on their memory and more on their analytical abilities.

The social sciences are also another component of the Social Studies Department. Each social science is a discipline unto itself. Psychology teaches us about ourselves, Sociology teaches us about ourselves in relation to groups. Anthropology explains where we came from, both physically and culturally. Political science helped us understand ourselves in relationship to public institutions, and history places us in time and place. American studies is history and English combined.

The Social Studies Lab was a big addition to the department. It is very helpful to be able to find what you are looking for in a short period of time on the internet. It's also important for the internet user to be able to distinguish between objective and bias websites. This is a great way to find information fast. Just imagine what the students at S.H.S. have to look forward to in the years to come.-Jennifer Finer

With computer skills becoming increasingly important, it is necessary to educate students about computer technology throughout high school. Students may accomplish this by taking various courses. Keyboarding, Computer Applications, College Word Processing, Telecommunications and Internet Research Lab are all offered so that students may become more educated about and comfortable with computers.

> "Computer knowledge is becoming increasingly important for success in the working community."
> Mrs. St.Jean

We are fortunate to have Mrs. St.Jean, Mrs Conrad, Mrs. Rabouin and Mr. McCormack on board our high school staff. These teachers are responsible for educating students in the area of computer technology. Although many teachers utilize the computer labs for classroom use, special classes are available to teach students about specific software programs and the internal/external components of a computer. Students will learn basic and advanced functions and commands in various computer programs. Internet, Microsoft Office, PowerPoint and Windows are just some of the programs that students will learn in their classes.

With so many classes using the computer labs, and so many other classes being taught there, the labs are a busy place. Each year it is necessary to improve the facilities and keep up to date with educational and business software.

Every Story Has Two Sides

The Physical Education Department consists of four teachers, Mrs. Curtis, Mr. Burke, Mr. Jackman, Mr. Jacobs and Mr. Looney who is the athletic director.

> "Our Physical Education program offers life long skills in a variety of sports. Students have a wide variety to choose from".
> Peter Looney

The physical educational program is comprehensive and coeducational. All activities are planned to develop and maintain the overall fitness, social, emotional, and intellectual needs of the individual. Students will be presented with the basic skills necessary to be an active participant in many team, dual, individual and lifetime activities. Health related fitness and testing are emphasized throughout the program.

Students have the freedom to choose the activities they participate in and gives them the opportunity to do what they choose to do. By offering physical educational classes throughout the high school years, students will learn the skills necessary to enjoy life-long activities.

Music Department

What's the Score?

When asked what are the goals of the Music Department, Mr Christianson, the Director of the Department, stated: "To expose the students to a variety of musical styles and develop the skills necessary to perform in those styles; to elevate the technique and skill level of all the students; to enable students to think and perform critically and truly understand the 'art' of music." It seems that those teachers involved with the Music Department are succeeding with an extraordinary amount of recognition. We students at Stoughton High School are extremely fortunate to have a wonderful group of musicians represent the school at regional competitions. Throughout this past year different musical groups from the department have participated at many festivals at which they have performed magnificently. For example, in the Fall at the NESBA (New England Scholastic Band Association) and MICA (Massachusetts Instrumental Conductors Association) Marching Band Festivals, ours was the Gold medalist of the State; at the IAJE (International Association of Jazz Educators) District Jazz Festival, the band was again the Gold medalist, however at the State Finals for Jazz bands, they placed second; at the Bay State, Nutmeg, and Eastern Show Choir Festivals, the choir received the Silver medal. Also this year the band, chorus, Show Choir, and Jazz Band will be traveling to Philadelphia, PA to perform at the Music Festivals '99 and exemplify the skills they have learned at Stoughton High. In addition to this, the department has held many special events among which are the Winter Concert on December 16th, the Evening of Jazz on March 24th, the Evening of Jazz with guest artist "Greg Abate" on April 7th, and, finally, the Pops Concert on May 19th.

> "If you don't know where you are going, you will never get there."
> Mr. Christianson

Although the members of the Music Department make this look like an easy achievement, learning the art of a musical instrument is an exceptionally difficult task. Mr. Christianson said that devoting the necessary time to provide progress is the ultimate key. In the music field instant gratification isn't something to expect; time, dedication, and self-discipline are vital to produce excellence in this area. However, with these essential elements one can experience the true love of music to its fullest extent and achieve a feeling of being a valued contributor to the class.-Jillian Rotondo

Athletic Department

Competing Relationships

Do you ever wonder who is responsible for the football games, picking out team uniforms, and ordering equipment? The Athletics Department is. This department has many responsiblities. Headed by Mr. Looney, the Athletic Department organizes and governs all athletic teams from freshmen to varsity programs. The department recommends hiring staff, orders equipment and uniforms, hires officals and buses, prepares the fields and courts, and formulates the schedules. This department also has to make sure Stoughton Athletics follows the MIAA state rules.

Even though this department is always busy, consisting of Health and Physical Education Kindergarden through 12 Grade, it still manages to hold yearly events. This year the Athletic Department held the cross country jamboree, field hockey jamboree, and the 8th grade parents night.

The Athletic Department programs provide students with a vehicle to compete. They influence students to cooporate, trust, and build lasting relationships. The programs teach a sense of responsiblity, a feeling of self worth and how to plan daily and future responsiblities. Students should receive an understanding of skills, stratagies, and drills of each game. Students should take on a responsiblity to oneself and to the team. Most will learn a sense of commitment to goals and a feeling of selfworth, but the most important is the enjoyment of working hard and having fun.

The Athletic department has three main goals. . . . Participation, Sportsmanship, and Enjoyment in a learning situation. The Athletic Department would like to have as many students involved in a variety of programs as possible. The department hopes and teaches that winning is not the only thing involved in participating. Sportsmanship, respecting fellow teammates, coaching staff, and opponents in their efforts is extremely important. Students should learn to become a class winner and gracious in defeat. The Athletics Department hopes and strives to teach as much as possible about the program they are involved in. Also, to teach drills and skills in order to perform better as an individual as well as situations and strategies as a team in competition.-Jennifer Finer

Dear Seniors,
Congratulations! Not only have you completed your last year of high school with distinction and aplomb, you have also escorted Stoughton High School into a new millennium. As the last class of the twentieth century, you have distinguished yourselves as motivated (in many cases), responsible (in most cases), and intelligent (in all cases) young adults. From the insecurity and uncertainty of the first day as freshmen to the triumphs as senior athletes, musicians, and scholars, you have left your marks on Stoughton High. As you usher in the twenty-first century, I am confident you will use your knowledge and confidence to pursue your goals to their successful and profitable fruition. Whether you choose to continue your education at a university, at a job, in the military, or in any other way, remember that you will always be learning. As Albert Einstein once said, "There are only two ways to live your life. One is as though nothing is a miracle. The other is as through everything is a miracle. "Good Luck Class of 1999; learn to find the miracles each day."

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

To the Junior Class,

On behalf of the four Junior Class officers and Mrs. Field, our advisor, I would like to thank the entire Junior Class for their outstanding participation in all inter - scholastic activities and for making the 1998 - 99 school year another successful one. Once again, Spirit Week turned out great for us. We came in first place in both Penny Wars and for Wall Design. Next year, after the class of 1999 has departed, we are very optimistic about going all out and taking first in all of the Spirit Week Activities. A special thanks goes out to all those Juniors who helped us out at the winter semi - formal by either setting up or selling refreshments. We all had a great time that evening. More than a third of the class, 112 students, ordered and received class rings from the Balfour Company. Thanks to the Ring Committee for their efforts in choosing a premier design for the rings and for their efforts in setting up the ring distribution. Also in deserve of recognition are Tara Peters and Amy Viera, our Vice - President and Treasurer respectively, for their efforts in setting up a night of Swing instruction and dance. Finally, the Prom Committee will get the recognition it deserves after the Junior Prom in May. This is sure to be a great event, so if you aren't a Junior, get to know one and go! Once again I would like to comment on the successful year that the Juniors have had, and that with great confidence I can say that we will soon be ready to fill the shoes of the departing Senior Class.

Sincerely,

Matthew Colleary
President, Junior Class

To the Junior Class:

With the year 2000 fast approaching and your senior year around the corner, I wish to congratulate you for the spirit and effort you have demonstrated in both your academic and extracurricular activities. Your enthusiastic participation of the last three years forehadow an outstanding and successful completion to your high school career. I want to wish you luck in the busy year ahead as you finalize your future plans.

We've Got Spirit!!

The sophomore class has been busy this year with fundraisers and activities planned.

In November it was time for Spirit Week and our theme was Disney this year. We decorated the wall by using lots of paper, paint, markers and different art supplies. Decorating night held a festive air and was filled with fun, friends and pizza!

The Winter Dance was held in December, and a most spectacular time was had by those who attended. The decorations were spectacular and the cafe was transformed into a winter wonderland.

The final class activity will be to hand out programs at both Class Night and Graduation. Our sophomore year has been very busy, filled with many decisions and memorable experiences.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

The Great Adventure!!!

The ninth grade. New school, new teachers, picking your own classes. It may have been a little overwhelming at first, but the freshman class made it through their first year and came out on the other side just a little bit more prepared for the rest of their lives. With all the new experiences and interesting things floating around it might have been easy for us to get off track. That didn't matter though, because we had good friends and teachers to help us through our first year. With one down and three to go the class of 2002 has a solid footing on the way to graduation.

This year our class accomplished a lot including a great spirit wall, contributions to the winter dance, and a helpful fundraiser. Besides the work of the class officers and advisor, several students donated their time to help the class achieve its goals. Our first year was both productive and enjoyable.-Wesley Hazard

A Letter From The Editors

As freshmen we were told that these four years would fly by, now we really understand that time does fly by. We never could have imagined how fast these four years would pass, we are now seniors and many things have changed. We no longer have study halls, we've had two or three different attendance policies to get used to and four different schedules. But we made it, we made it through all that and still managed to make it fun. The yearbook is no different, it changes, but one thing remains the same....Mrs. Pappas.

Through the stress of trying to meet deadlines, deal with rumors, misunderstandings and snow storms we managed to get our work done for the class of 1999, the last class of the millenium. "All's well that ends well" is the theme for our yearbook as this is the end of a century, we are the last class, last but not least. Although the staff was small this year we managed to work together and capture this moment in time that is 1999. The book is finally done and we are all still alive. We, the editors hope that you enjoy your yearbook (if you don't we don't want to hear it, there have been enough complaints for one year.) We worked our hardest and we hope that you enjoy looking back at these memories in the years to come.

We cannot give enough thanks to the people that have helped us to get this book done: Erin Bernstein, Kristen Panico, Jennifer Finer, Vanessa Campbell, Jill Mallen, Jillian Rotondo and Jennifer Labbe for working so diligently on the book, Paul America for designing the cover and the divider pages, Mr. Chamberlain for proof reading all of our work, and Mrs Pappas for all of the work that she put in to make this book great. Thank you all for your help, your patience and your understanding throughout the year, we could not have done it without you.-Rachel Slate and Emily Banis

Last Will and Testament

Paul America - All the deceased brain cells that I lost here.
Kevin Anderson - I leave my hockey jersey to the school.
Janna Atcheson - I leave a hug and a smile to all of the good friends, great teachers, and helpful men and women of the office and guidance dept. I will miss you all so much.
Emily Banis - I leave the National Irish Society, K & N cops and robbers and all of the good times.
Renee Barker - I leave my soccer uniform and all the fun memories.
Kristina Barrett - Amy I'm leaving you my driving techniques. Laura I'm leaving you my field hockey and softball skills. You'll need to keep my numbers alive. Most of all I leave you both all of the fun times I've experienced at S.H.S. Hope you guys will have just as many.
Dayna Beliveau - I leave my "world of make believe" that got me and Jen in trouble so many times.
Erin Bernstein - I am leaving desire, determination, and effort to my loving school.
Kristin Bettle - I leave behind the List and the pursuit of the "Italian Stallions"!
Janine Buonomo - I leave Shaitmasta to KIMMYB.
Young Rok Chang - I'm leaving my computer information technological help memories to Stoughton High School as I set up the new upgrade of the computer systems during the summer of 1998.
Bronston Charles - I leave my friendships with both staff and students and the many memories that I have of my years here.
Brian Cheverie - I leave my wrestling shoes.
Michael Concannon - I will leave my absences behind.
Alyssa Dancey - I leave the countless circles I have run in, and my stories about Mr. Latinabo and Moragn.
Sandra DaSilva - I leave my heavy books for the generations to come.
Joshua DelConte - My soccer number and locker, #5.
Kristin Dhionis - I leave my twenty minute hall pass to the next person who hates sitting in class.
Jeffrey Dias - I leave the teachers of SHS and all the fun I had.
Jilyan Ducharme - I leave my wonderful toothpick bridges that never held the weight.
Christopher Duggan - I leave my attitude and lack of spirit.
Kristin Edwards - I leave behind all my good times with Steve and all the tapes of Amber and myself from TV Seminar.
Tiffany Elms - I leave my phasing out of Jen and Dayna's stories, from their make - believe world.
Kristen Farwell - I leave all my ailments and injuries.
Michael Fine - I leave my track team memories.
Jennifer Finer - I leave my "world of make believe" that got me and Dayna in trouble so many times.
Joseph Fisher - To this school I leave the bleach blonde hair and piercing era.
Julie Flynn - I am leaving the field hockey team my front tooth and my orange ball.
John Foley - I leave my hockey shirt and my hockey skates.
Kristen Fox - I leave my notorious name to Mr. Paul and Mr. Monti.
Amanda Gentile - I leave my cheerleading uniform and the 1st place trophy from the Canton cheerleading competition in 1998.
Christopher Greene - I leave the legacy of zyy and surrender.
Aaron Gross - A blue print of SHS for small areas or a route to McDonalds.
Amanda Hannon - I leave my psychic powers.
Christopher Howsen - All of the teachers and other faculty members.
Kimberly Huppe - I leave the jazzband the performances at the Hatch Shell and the gymnastics team my broken shoulder and big, comfy crash mats.
Matthew Hurtig - I leave my football and basketball shirt.
Timothy Kourafas - I'm going to leave the Greek legacy.
Jillian Kuhn - I leave my cheerleading uniform, my poms and those goofy spirit fingers everyone makes fun of.

Jennifer Labbe - I leave behind all my good times and memories I've had here at S.H.S.
Legrande Lindor - My track uniform and all the humorous things I have done for the teachers and students.
Mark Liston - My basketball uniform, #22 and all my tests so the underclassmen can get better grades!
Danielle McNamara - I leave behind my tiara.
Scott Milgroom - I leave my baseball uniform (#47), my Honorable Mention Award from the Science Fair, and my Certificate of Merit from the National Spanish Exam. Godspeed!
Carolyn Mischley - All the report cards that I never gave to my father.
Lyndsay Mitchell - I leave behind all the toys and candy that kept me and Jill awake in math class.
Jennifer Mor - I leave two brothers to carry on the Mor legacy in Stoughton High.
Jenna Obelsky - I will leave the field hockey team with the chicken song and Madalina Badalina.
Danielle Olen - I leave a collage of memories of all the great times and many laughs that I've shared with all my friends.
Steven Overstreet - I'm leaving behind all the fun times hanging out with the boys & Kristin.
Kristen Panico - I leave all of the ignorant, worthless friendships and cherish the real ones. I also leave the cop and robber chases and with N & E.
Michael Pimentel - I leave my leadership on the mound at Stoughton High.
Barbie Qualls - Last words - "You don't own the past, you don't own the future, the present is all you have". - Les Brown
Brandon Rainer - I'm leaving my extreme coolness to future classes to come.
Eleanor Roan - I leave the Force. May it be with you.
Jessica Rodrigues - I leave the field hockey team my numerous injuries of the season & I leave Erin Mac the legacy of the Mushers!
Jennie Rosman - I leave my locker and everything else to my sister, Melissa.
Kristen Rotella - I leave this quote to ponder, " The more you praise and celebrate your life, the more there is in life to celebrate." - Oprah Winfrey
Jillian Rotondo - I leave behinid all the toys and candy that kept me and Linzee awake in math class.
Allene Sather - I leave fun times to Joel and Laura and I leave my wishes for them to both succeed and go far in life.
Rachel Selby - I leave the Cross country team with my blessing of the chicken and D.B.J.
Irvin Shlayn - I will leave this school my legacy of one that cannot be broken either by will or strength. I am the definitive bad boy in Stoughton High.
Alicia Singer - I leave behind "my mobile" to my brother, or the junior high parking lot!
Jenny Sousa - I leave my Taunton High pride, an empty locker and empty seats for others to come.
Lisa Strano - I leave my drum major jacket and all of the memories it holds.
Holly L. Sturtevant - I leave all my new friends.
Jonathan Sullivan - I leave my football jersey, the legendary #72 and my legacy to my brother and sister.

The Stoughton Black Knights Baseball Team had a difficult rebuilding season. With the loss of many talented seniors, from last year, the team had a lot of spaces to fill in. The season opened with a 1-1 record showing a lot of potential but the next few games were tough battles. These games did not discourage the team; they just made the team try harder. Led by Coach Ashley, the baseball team never gave up throughout the whole season and had great sportsmanship. -Jennifer Finer

It's all how you play

This year was a very tough year for the Boys Varsity Tennis Team. Despite all of the valiant efforts that had been made, it seemed to be as trying as the last. Although the scoreboard didn't show it, the members of the team played every match with tremendous effort and undying spirit. Led by senior captain Matt Abrams and junior captain Scott Levine, the team had many close matches, falling short by only a couple of points. Throughout the season the team has struggled to accomplish their best, showing great improvement along the way. Coach Young is optimistic, though, with a positive view regarding the coming years.

What a memorable year it was! The game that ended it all was a non-league game against Archbishop Williams on April 15th at which the team won 4–1. This victory was all the girls needed to get them going. After that everything seemed to fall into place, according to Coach Connor. Although there were no seniors on the team, the juniors showed their strength and ability to lead. The 41st Annual Stoughton High School Science Fair was held on March 10th. Students from science classes displayed their projects while being judged by professionals, teachers, and college students from the area. Most students wrote an in-depth research report before beginning experimentation. After creating a hypothesis, students tested them, made observations, and formed conclusions. They then made a visual display and gave an oral presentation. Some chose to enter the science fair for extra credit while others entered for the experience. Each student was judged three times on scientific approach, original notebook, thoroughness, ingenuity and creativity, and advancement in science.

(Right) In Washington, Roosevelt's cabinet (Sarah Symynkywicz, Adam Zaremba, CJ Henning, and Christopher Howsen) mirror the national gloom as they listen to the radio.

It is December 1933 and America is deep in the midst of the Great Depression. On the Lower East Side of New York, the Municipal Orphanage, Girl's Annex, has been a drab home for 11-year-old Annie for all but the first two months of her life. Awake at 4:00 a.m., Annie wonders what her lost parents are like and Miss Agatha Hannigan, the mean-tempered spinster who runs the orphanage, is furious at finding Annie and the orphans awake and puts them to work scrubbing the floors.

When Annie is returned to the orphanage after running away and just as she's about to be disciplined by Miss Hannigan, Miss Grace Farrell, the private secretary to Oliver Warbucks, the billionaire industrialist, arrives. Warbucks has decided to invite an orphan to spend the Christmas holidays with him.

Everyone that Annie meets is turned optimistic by her cheery spirits. Christmas morning, in the Warbuck's mansion all agree that this Christmas is the beginning of a wonderful new life for not only them but for everyone in America.

the students Italy travel

During April vacation forty-three students traveled to Italy and visited Rome, Assisi, Florence, Padua, and Venice. The group was chaperoned by Mr. Vieira, his wife, son Paul and daughter-in-law. The group spent a very busy week sightseeing and experiencing the Italian culture and learned quickly that it is much different there than in the United States.

Mr. Vieira chaperones ACIS trips year after year because he feels that this is an opportunity for the students they may never get again. He sees the students benefiting from these trips in terms of education and personal growth.

The students prepared for this trip by learning about Italy and its culture. They were given the basic background in order for them to have a successful trip. When they returned home from Italy, the students had a better understanding of the Renaissance and the different aspects of the old Roman civilization. They also learned the individual characteristics of each city they visited. All who traveled abroad had a wonderful time and will have the memories forever.

the starry night remembered

The Taunton Holiday Inn was the place to be on May 7, 1999. The Junior Prom was the social climax of the year. Everyone worked to look their very best for the time they would spend together in the ballroom. Under the dance floor lights, both the polished- and the not-so-polished dancers boogied to the beat of The Entertainer's deafening stereo speakers. It was a night where memories were made, dreams were fulfilled and the possibilities were endless.

The theme "Remember Me this Way" accurately conveyed the thoughts of those in attendance. Pictures were taken all night of the gorgeous couples. At 10 p.m. the King, Queen and court were chosen. A wonderful evening was had by all.

the enchanted formal evening

The enchanted evening began with limousines of white, grey and black lining the driveway of the Dedham Hilton, with ladies and gentlemen stepping out of them carefully, so not to trip on a hem or pop the catch of a too-tight cumberbund. The couples stepped through the lobby being greeted by Mr. Boushell and Mr. Gormley. After checking in with school officials, most couples patiently awaited picture taking before stepping onto the dance floor. As the lights dimmed, the music began to cast its spell upon the eager party goers. It seemed like only moments since the dance floor held its first dancers, but at the stroke of midnight this magical evening ended. This night would always be remembered.

the sunrise class trip

At 6:20 a.m. the adventure to Moodus, CT began. Loaded with gear, members of the senior class piled into two buses for the long drive. At last reaching the "Sunrise Resort" the seniors were promised "Food, Frolic, Fun" on a large sign as they pulled into the resort. As soon as the seniors stepped off the bus they knew they were in for a great day. They were organized together and were introduced to "CooCoo," the resort guide – a man with wild, white hair and a vast assortment of large unusual hats.

After that meeting, seniors went swimming, canoeing, horseback riding, caught some rays by the pool or just walked around getting the layout of the land. Lunch was a cookout, and with all the morning activities students were starved! After eating and relaxing a bit Stoughton High School had a chance to compete in games against other schools on class trips also. We competed in canoe races, diving, tug o'war, and a potato sack race. The staff made sure we all were having a great time. After the dance contest, the Class of 1999 left Moodus, sunburnt and happy with many fond memories.

the seniors celebrate class night

It all began with members of the Class of 1999 milling around the cafeteria, trying to keep their caps on straight and wondering why they were having troubles with their flowers. When it came to line up it was according to height, as we did in kindergarten. Friends bent their knees slightly or stood on their tippy toes so they could sit with friends. The processional into the auditorium where all our family and friends sat was enough to bring a tear to our eyes, especially when the band played "Pomp and Circumstance". The program began with opening speaches from the administration and class officers. Awards were presented to the best of each department and an honorable award, The Golden Knight. The grande finale of the night was the video yearbook. We were closing a huge chapter in our life but at the same time we were beginning a new one.

the evening graduation celebrated

The night we've waited thirteen years for — Graduation! Lined up in the heat of the D-2nd corridor, the 1999 seniors waited to file out to the football field and graduate. Most of us couldn't believe that tonight was graduation and it would be the last time the class will be together as a whole.

Filing down the stairs to the across the track and down the football field, the fact that we were about to graduate became real. The stands were filled with parents, siblings, relatives, friends and teachers welcoming and congratulating the class.

Mr. Boushell, Mr. Sarno, and Mr. Milgroom addressed the graduating class and expressed their best wishes for the future. Speaking as valedictorian, Jenna Obelsky addressed the class, along with our class vice president, Jennifer Vo.

With diplomas in hand, all that was left for the Class of 1999 was picture taking, tearful goodbyes, celebrating and a fond memory to treasure and remember the rest of our lives.
